

Making Indigenous Citizens: Identities, Education, and Multicultural Development in Peru (Paperback)

By María Elena García

Stanford University Press, United States, 2005. Paperback. Condition: New. Revised.. Language: English . Brand New Book. Set against conventional views of Peru as a place where indigenous mobilization has been absent, this book examines the complex, contentious politics between intercultural activists, local Andean indigenous community members, state officials, non-governmental organizations, and transnationally-educated indigenous intellectuals. It examines the paradoxes and possibilities of Quechua community protests against intercultural bilingual education, official multicultural policies implemented by state and non-state actors, and the training of authentic indigenous leaders far from their home communities. Focusing on important local sites of transnational connections, especially in the highland communities of Cuzco, and on an international academic institute for the study of intercultural bilingual education, this book shows how contemporary indigenous politics are inextricably and simultaneously local and global. In exploring some of the seeming contradictions of Peruvian indigenous politics, Making Indigenous Citizens suggests that indigenous movements and citizenship are articulated in extraordinary but under-explored ways in Latin America and beyond.

READ ONLINE
[3.49 MB]

Reviews

Completely essential read ebook. It is among the most awesome book i actually have read. I am very happy to explain how this is basically the greatest book i actually have read in my individual existence and might be he best pdf for possibly.

-- Prof. Alexandro Runolfsson

This is the very best publication we have read through right up until now. It is one of the most incredible book we have read through. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Miss Celia Volkman